ST. LOUIS SKETCHES.

Inability of Strangers to Find Out "Where They Are At" in St. Louis.

Growing cities, while welcoming the stranger, and selling him goods or ground, are not sufficiently considerate of his convenience. There may be a thousand attractions for him, but unless he employs a guide or happens to have relatives or obliging friends in town, how is he to see anything?

The newspapers may print the list of resorts and wonders, and name the street where they are to be found, but the stranger is not clearly indicated to him as he picks his way along or looks out of the car window.

The hotel where he is to sleep, the hotel where he is to leave his hotel for a stroll in a city, is that of the statesman in Congress, "Where am I?" He must seek a close friend or a native guide, or be obliged to inquire his way back and take a new start in the labyrinth of brick and mortar. If he is only to stay a day or two, he may manage to find his way, but if he has to come to the city to live and has to find a vacant house?

The way of all strangers might be made plain if the city were to be sufficiently divided and marked on every corner. With the names on but one corner, and many of these doubled and twisted by the wind, it is no easy task for the stranger to find a place that has attained the growth of St. Louis.

There are shrewd business men who have their corners so that a visitor to the city may know and remember their location, and they have no doubt profited by their enterprise. It would be a pleasant stranger who could not find his way at any time by purchasing at places that are easily found.

The number of every place a business should have is a mystery to the stranger, and of streets. Yankee toodle, when he came to town, would have bought those trousers if the tailor shop had been sufficiently numerous to satisfy his wants. As it was, he went home without making a purchase.

There is no business man so well known that he may not be hidden from many strangers who would deal with him if they could easily find him, and they are therefore compelled to go to the city for a time.

PARIS IS DULL.

THE GRAND OPERA IS BAD AND THERE IS NOTHING TO AMUSE THE PEOPLE.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—In the intense quietude of the dull season which has now arrived, one finds but little to do and still less to write about. A promenade through the fashionable residence quarters of the city reveals only rows upon rows of close-shuttered windows in all the elegant apartment houses of the boulevards Haussmann, or Malesherbes or the Champs Elysees. Society is out of town. The four-fourths of the theaters and fully one-half of the law-courts are closed. It is only in the region of the great hotels that anything like the stir and animation that usually distinguish the gay capital are visible. The tide of English and American travel flows in its accustomed channels, and the shopkeepers and dressmakers have no reason to complain of any diminution in the number of their foreign customers.

In default of any more exciting pastime therewith, I went a night or two ago to see the new moon. Not the actual luminary, which in a condition very much dimmed by the mists of the damp climate, beams in diminished glory in the heavens above us. Like the mosquito in Brander Matthews' very comical anecdotes, this was not a real moon, but the wonderful theatrical one which M. Bertrand, the manager of the Grand Opera, brought back with him from Vienna the other day, and which made its debut with all due solemnity last week in the opera of "Salammbo." As the moon plays a very important part in that piece the selection was a judicious one. The heroine sings in the moonlight, and the scene is one of the already famous cavorting. "O, that I had the wings of a dove!" (which is, by the way, the sole fragment of genuine melody that the work contains) to the rising luminary, adored by the Carthaginians under the name of the goddess Tanit. And the appearance of the beatuous silver globe, mired from the mists that hover above the sea, its surface shaded like that of the real moon and climbing the skies with the same majestic movement of the genuine satellite, was most impressive as well as romantic, a complete and fitting attraction to the attention of Messrs. Abbey and Gobet. As they have engaged from the Grand Opera Mlle. Fierens, who can hardly be considered a star, they might as well go in for the new style of moon.

A SERIOUS THREAT.—The opening of "Salammbo" is the most important production we have as yet beheld on the boards of the Grand Opera, and does great credit to the enterprise of the new director. But, as ever, there is but one qualification lacking to the company. There are no singers. Van Dyck and the De Resques and Lasalle wander about the stage like the lost souls of the dead, thing like a good ensemble is not to be hoped for. The female division of the troupe is simply dire and dreadful. To be sure there is Mme. Rose Caron, but though she is a great artiste she has no longer any voice. Mlle. Delmas is in the same condition, except that in no sense of the word are they artists. Very bad is the company as a whole. The revival of the "Henry VIII." of Saint Saens a few weeks ago called forth a most remarkable demonstration. After the first performance of the revived work, a group of the principal season subscribers, the holders of the boxes, and most expensive boxes, called on the manager to declare that if the opera in question was again given with that most inopportune cast, they would one and all cancel their subscriptions. The director himself was at that moment absent from Paris, but his substitute sent him a telegram and a hasty acquainting him with the facts. So, by his orders "Henry VIII." has disappeared from the bills, at least for the present.

THE "FAUST" REVENGE.—There is to be a very brilliant revival of "Faust" some time next winter. Gounod's masterpiece will be taken off the boards for some months, during which period new and magnificent scenery will be painted for it. M. Bertrand having lately gone to Nuremberg to investigate the streets and edifices of that picturesque old city, with a view to securing photographs to furnish forth the surroundings for the soldiers, chorus, and the like with the violin. The "Faust" has never been renewed since the opera-house was opened in 1875, and is in a state of shabbiness and dilapidation that would disgrace a third-class barn in the rural districts of England. "There is a hole in the sky," said one of my hat in the sky, the Walpurgis Night scene," remarked Gounod dismaly one day, when conversing with a friend on the subject. It is very characteristic of the present state of affairs at the Grand Opera that so much is said and promised concerning the scenery for the revival, but not a word respecting the singers. Who is to be the Marguerite—the Faust—the Mephistopheles?—nay, even the Valentine? Time alone can tell and I fear that the facts in the case will form but a sorry story.

The truth of the matter is that the management of the Grand Opera refuses to pay the salaries demanded by experienced and famous singers, and they try to get along by engaging debutantes of promise. This would prove a feasible scheme enough were not their choice restricted to vocalists who are not French naturalized. "No Americans need apply" might be the announcement posted above the door of the director's reception room, so the door of the director's reception room, so the best pupils of Mme. Marchesi and Mme. LaGrange and Mme. Marie Sasse are not available to fill the lamentable gaps in that department of the season. Not even in later years boasted of such artists as Mme. Krauss and Reichardt and M. Lasalle, and which is now almost intolerably bad.

A ROMANCE RELATED.—Speaking of the present, there was posted out to me the other evening in one of the boxes on the grand tier a very charming English lady, concerning whom a curious story was related to me. She is the second daughter of one of the great scientists of England; a man whose fame is world-wide and whose name, were I at liberty to mention it, would be a household word to the readers of the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH. She and her husband as well, who is handsome and immensely wealthy, and fervently devoted to his lovely wife, are very popular and well received in English society. And he was, indeed, according to the law of the land of their native land, they are not legally married. Some years ago the gentleman espoused the elder sister of his present wife. The union was one of mutual affection, and promised at first to be extremely happy, but the unfortunate wife was attacked by a fit of mania, resulting in an acute form of brain disease, which fitfully deprived her of her reason and afterwards of her life. Meantime the younger sister had aided her brother-in-law in all the care that the invalid's condition necessitated, and when, at last, the poor lady died, the wife of the man who had been so passionately in love with the devoted and gentle woman who had lightened the burden of his great sorrow by sharing it, his attachment was fully reciprocated, but, by the laws of England, forbidding the marriage of a widower with his deceased wife's sister, they were doomed to life-long separation. The man, however, obtained a writ of habeas corpus, and the court, in a fit of compassion, allowed him to have his wife restored to him. "Charming," exclaimed the Cardinal, not appearing shocked in the least. "The portrait of Madame la Marquise I presume, I must show it to these gentlemen." And he was about to tender the box to the British Ambassador, who was standing near, and its abashed owner had barely time to intercept it on its way.

THE United States Government is Mr. Wanamaker's oyster.

PARTY success depends upon bringing out good candidates and bringing out a full vote. This is a tip to the Democrats of St. Louis.

THE letter-carrier who fails to hum a verse from Wanamaker's "Living Hymns" while making up his mail should be recommended for dismissal.

PERHAPS Postmaster-General Wanamaker expects that the overtaxed American consumer will soothe himself with Wanamaker's "Living Hymns."

PECK's offense is the subject of too much fuss and feathers. If he has violated the law let him be punished, but he should not be dignified by making him a national issue.

THE will of the voters, not the dictation of the committee, must rule in the Democratic nomination of the Twelfth Congressional District. It is essential to success in the election.

AS MR. BLAINE leaves for Washington in October for the winter, how is he to vote in November for his friend Benjamin Harrison? Will that Democratic friend kindly pair with him once more?

SHOULD the presidential election be thrown into the House, and Cleveland and Reid be elected, the Grand Army would not be unrepresented. No doubt Col. Reid would wear his badge on inauguration day.

BOSTON did not turn out largely to hear Canadian Alderman McDonald's address in favor of the union of the United States and Canada. The confidence of the Bostonian in the fertility of the Canadian bean lands is very small.

GILMORE has gone, but his magnificent band, built up under his leadership, infused with his spirit and led by a trained lieutenant, will continue to delight the people at Music Hall for the remainder of the Exposition season.

IT must fill Mr. McKinley with "pride and vanity" to see how a single coal combine has raised the price of fuel this year. Consumers for coal as in giving up their money for other articles.

WHATEVER Mr. Powderly thinks about protection, he is very unfair in charging the Democratic party with favoring wild cat currency. He is merely repeating a Republican cry, the falsity of which must be known to every intelligent man.

THE esteemed Republic's able writer on unmorality and immorality should see that his articles do not appear in those numbers of the Republic containing accounts of the revival of the can-can, with pictures that no careful father of a family would permit to enter his home. Such is the haste and heedlessness of daily journalism, there are newspapers that mix their unmorality and their immorality in the same issue.

AN indication of the real attitude of the Push towards snap primaries is afforded in the objection of some of its representatives on the Democratic City Central Committee to the rescinding of the committee's action. The objection to that action was good, but the conduct of its committee-substitutes substantiates the suspicion that it was not made by the push for the purpose of pro-righting a wrong, but to gain advantage in the popular mind over a rival faction in the party machine. Fortunately the committee has had the wisdom to remove all ground of contention by postponing the primaries and giving ample opportunity for a fair expression of the will of the voters. Now let that will be expressed, and the Democracy will be in position to make a winning fight for St. Louis.

THE NEW APPORTIONMENT RULES.

The suggestion is made in the Washington Post that a complication may arise over the number of electors in the electoral college on the ground that it is based upon the number of members in the Fifty-third Congress according to the re-apportionment law instead of the Fifty-second.

Not much weight can be given to the point. The apportionment law under the last census has been passed, and the people will elect Congressmen this fall in accordance with it. Why should Presidential electors be chosen under the old law and apportionment conditions which have passed out of existence? The number of members in the present Congress represents merely the effect of action taken under a law which has been repealed. The States are now entitled to the number of Congressmen provided for by the new apportionment and because the term of the present Congress happens to extend beyond the election of another one that right in relation to electors chosen at the same time as the new Representatives are chosen can hardly be affected by it.

The complication is one suggested by a superficial view of the present senseless mode of regulating the Congressional term.

In the prominence given the recognition of the pleasing qualities of Gilmore as the leader of a band, his power to gauge the popular taste and win his public, there is danger of overlooking higher service to musical art for which he deserves praise. No man in his position has done more to educate the public taste, to popularize good music and bring it home to the masses of the people. He had a fine faculty of combining instruction and entertainment with such nice judgment that the former was unconsciously absorbed in the enjoyment of the latter. He was a master showman with the impulse and ambition of the artist, and while he never disdained to delight the plain people with the melodies of the heart and the comedies of passing fancy he did not neglect to educate them in the harmonies of the instrument of the heart.

THERE is nothing very wicked in the conduct of Mrs. Hallock of Wayne, N. Y., in dallying ten years and refusing to be washed. The chief harm in such a course is the failing off it may occasion in the soap industry. Perhaps the soap testimonial in the newspapers, if more skillfully worded, would convince Mrs. Hallock.

The cholera scare has brought into prominence others than the doctors. The citizen who indulges heavily in lobsters and beer is hurried off to the hospital and immediately celebrated in the newspapers as a cholera suspect. The most obscure of men have a chance when an epidemic is around.

SHOULD an American preacher crowd the son of Spurgeon out of Spurgeon's pulpit, John Bull may not be so well pleased as Uncle Samuel. But Mr. Bull should reflect that as he gets from us the best grain and the best cotton, he may also get the best theology.

CHANCERY DEP'W is growing a new set of teeth, at which his friends and the dentists marvel. Mr. Depew's whiskers have long made him a favorite with the ladies; but when he smiles with those whiskers with his new teeth, how will their delight be described?

The heroic Grand Army man who wrested a Confederate flag from two dangerous Confederate women twenty-seven years after the close of the war would have been equally undaunted if he had encountered a party of rebel babies.

It is asserted that one man, three times a week, receives from $50 to $100 a day for the horseradish he raises for the St. Louis market. Perhaps the rumor has gone abroad that horseradish is protected in the McKinley bill.

THE carved turkeys of the World's Fair Agricultural Building friends are fortunately big enough to be out of the reach of tramps.

The Prospect in New York.

From the New York Times.

STATISTICIAN PECK is a lover of mystery. The secret communications he received in regard to the wages that had been privately increased in the State of New York ought to have satisfied, for the time, at least, his craving for the mysterious, but it appears that it did not. He became so infatuated with darkness as to register himself at a hotel as "Charles Fletcher."

No great man, however, can conceal himself by merely changing his name. He must put on a wig and alter his whiskers. Mr. "Fletcher" was immediately recognized. The more Mr. Peck works in the shadows the more he becomes conspicuous.

His damask cheek is no food for the concealment worm.

NOTHING shows more clearly the sort of campaign the Republicans are conducting this year than the confidential circular of Chairman Hackett of the New York Committee. He calls for the names of Democrats who can be induced to vote for Harrison. The nature of the inducements offered may be gathered from the secrecy and discretion said to be necessary to success.

Everything now points to a development and refinement of Dudley's methods, without which the party of great moral ideas cannot be kept going.

THE coal combine is merrily raising prices again, regardless of or perhaps unconscious of injunctions and other trifles of the legal sort. The whole country is suffering from this outrage which has been inflicted upon 85,000,000 people by an unlawful conspiracy, aided by a lot of innocent Pennsylvania citizens who are never happy except when being duped by some monopoly. The real responsibility rests upon the Keystone State and the Philadelphia newspapers.

DESPITE the fact that Hill has openly avowed his intention to do all in his power for Cleveland, and is advocating his election on the stump, the Republican press insists that he and his friends will fail him in November. Should the Senator do this he would be guilty of hypocritical treachery which would prove him the vilest figure in American politics. Hill is a practical politician, who perhaps does not let small scruples stand in the way of his objects, but it is impossible to believe him capable of the villainy of which the wish of the Republicans has led them to accuse him. Even if he were capable of such nefarious conduct, self-interest would induce him to play fair this year. There is no reason to fear that Cleveland will not receive the support of the mass of Tammany and Hill men in New York, except the flimsy accusations created by the ardent desire of the Republicans.

At Indiana Grand Army man, whose name the Indianapolis Journal withholds, declares that there is no politics in the G. A. R. encampment, but that "Cleveland's animosity to the soldier is of the most intense character." It is hard to believe that a good soldier would give utterance to such a falsehood, and the newspaper to me it is something more. It gives shape and consistency to the campaign itself. It lays down the lines on which the canvass is to be conducted. It constitutes the marching orders of the great Democratic organization which has wrested New York State from the control of the Republicans, and it gives the signal that every movement is to be bold and aggressive. The vitality and enthusiasm displayed in the speech will prove to be contagious.

shall the Mayor Be Impeached?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The air has been full of this question several times during the present administration. There may exist statutory grounds for impeachment. We should probably have less difficulty in finding the city's executive if the present incumbent were removed; but it seems to me that it is an arbitrary and illegal procedure to impeach the Mayor.

The American people are not holding great meetings to rejoice over the establishment of Gilmore's northern boundary by Lieut. Peary. What they want to hear is that Lieut. Peary or some other citizen has fastened the boundary of the United States with the Arctic. It is true that unlicensed British dogs are not allowed the freedom of British streets, but the American dog in England, hailing as he does from the land of the free and the home of the brave, must be allowed all the liberties of which the glorious stars and stripes are a guarantee. FREE OF CHOLERA.

Not a Case of the Plague in the Port of New York.

THE FACT OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED BY DR. JENKINS AND STERNBERG.

Steamers and Passengers Released From Quarantine—Detroit's Health Officer Defies the State Authorities—Clean Bills of Health Reported by the Last Arrivals—Hamburg's Death List—Plague News.

New York, Sept. 26.—At 11:15 a. m. Dr. Jenkins and Dr. Sternberg returned from lower quarantine and have officially announced that the port of New York is free from cholera. The health officer says there are no cholera cases down the bay to-day, all the sick having recovered.

Among the arrivals at upper quarantine this morning are the Red Star liner Pennland, with 210 cabin passengers on board. She reported all well and will probably be released this afternoon or to-morrow morning.

The Gulf liner Arizona also arrived with 48 cabin passengers on board. She also has no sickness. Neither of the ships carry immigrants and their detention will be short. The steamer Wyoming, that has been held in lower quarantine for several days owing to the deaths of two little children on board and their mother on Swinburne Island, will be released to-day and allowed to go to her dock. The Elsie Marie from Hamburg was released at 10 a. m. The steamer Servia was released from quarantine this morning and proceeded to her dock.

The Board of Health posted the following bulletin at 10 o'clock this morning: "No cases of cholera in this city since the last bulletin."

DEFYED THE AUTHORITIES.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 26.—Local Health Officer Dumfeld has defied the State Board's authority as to the quarantine of cholera suspects, and the trouble has involved United States Inspector Mulhern, Inspector Wright and Dr. F. H. Barnum, who has charge of the Marine Service. The State Board telegraphed to Dr. Dumfeld, "You will not forgo the Board's rules; you are not to act as State Inspectors." The troubles that the State Board ordered a twenty-day quarantine of all immigrants from infected ports within the local board's area are over, as all such suspects who have Canadian health certificates, and the United States Inspectors are pending instructions from Washington, decide to act with the local board.

The State Inspectors also stick by Dr. Dumfeld, being promised employment in the state if they do not act as State Inspectors. Those who have studied the matter say Dr. Dumfeld is acting in defiance of the law, and can find himself imprisoned. As Dr. Baker and Dr. Mulhern, Acting and Regular Inspectors, have no authority to enforce the State Board rulings, legal action seems probable. Immigrants from Canada who are arriving are being sent to the West daily by small numbers. Dr. Dumfeld's inspection.

The Anchor Line steamer Anchuria, which arrived from Glasgow to-day, brought out 322 passengers and crew. She reports all well and will be released this evening or to-morrow forenoon.

DETENTION UNNECESSARY.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 26.—Assistant Secretary Spaulding telegraphed Collector of Customs to act this way: "The Department is advised that 200 American citizens on the Cunard steamer Marquette, in perfect health, have been four days in quarantine. American citizens, whether in cabin or steerage, need not be detained after health officers have certified it is safe to land them."

ARRIVED IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 26.—Fifty of the passengers for this city, who came from Hamburg on the cholera-infected steamer Normannia, having been released from quarantine at New York, arrived here this morning. They were met at the city limits by health officers and submitted to inspection. They were all found to be in good health and their names and addresses in the city were taken, they were allowed to complete their long journey.

PLAQUE ABROAD.

STATISTICS OF THE WORD OF CHOLERA IN HAMBURG.

HAMBURG, Sept. 26.—The cholera figures for Saturday were: New cases, 248; deaths, 129; burials, 237; patients in hospitals, 2,428. Sunday's figures: New cases, 191; deaths, 96; burials, 207; patients in hospital, 2,213.

total number of interments in Hamburg this year is 19,997, of which the cholera is responsible for 9,700, though the official lists say only 7,806.

Yesterday the bodies of 11 cholera victims were buried in one huge grave. The doctors employed in the city have published a plan to bury the bodies in a common grave.

W. P. Greene, a New York physician, has been appointed to represent the Assembly carpenters and joiners' Union, and has joined the A. H. Austin and other unions who name delegates later.

The Irish-American Club has arranged for a meeting to be held here Saturday evening. John P. Flerty of Schools was his address a struggling school at Mount Bryan, Miss., two years ago.

INFECTED WELLS.

ANTWERP, Sept. 26.—The cholera bacillus has been discovered in a well in an infected street of this city. Many pumps have been ordered closed.

Several deaths from cholera have been reported in Portela, a suburb of Boulogne, since the 15th.

There is a marked daily increase in the cholera mortality in all the infected districts in Odessa.

A DRUMMER SEIZED.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 26.—A drummer who had a room at one of the hotels here was discovered to-day to be suffering from cholera. He was removed to a hospital and the other occupants of the hotel were isolated.

ST. PETERSBURG FIGURES.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 26.—The official cholera returns for yesterday give the number of new cases as seventeen and the deaths as ten. Compared with Saturday's figures, there is a decrease of fifteen cases and an increase of five deaths.

AT HAYRE.

HAYRE, Sept. 26.—The number of new cases of cholera reported in this city yesterday was four. Five deaths from the disease were also reported.

INCREASING.

VIENNA, Sept. 26.—Cholera is said to be spreading in Roumania and especially in the district of Carsova.

CLEVELAND'S PROTEST.

The Ex-President Giving a Girl an Education.

FLORENCE, Ala., Sept. 26.—Miss Jessie Carl of Greenville, Miss., has just come to the Southern Female University in this city as the protege of ex-President Grover Cleveland, who bears all her expenses at the school. Miss Carl is a bright scholar and her parents are good Democrats. Mr. Cleveland gave $500 to the University when it was STARTLING.

This Has No Uncertain Sound.

What Does This Mean To Our People?

It Rings' With a Great and Grand Hope.

Something Thousands Are Seeking For.

A Fact of Marvelous Import to All.

NEWBURGH, N. Y.—A telegraphic dispatch from Newburg, N. Y., arrived this morning, and most marvelous chance has taken place in the person of one of its oldest and best known citizens. Hon. S. Shorter, Esq., is an old man of 75 years, and lives at 391 Broadway, Newburg, N. Y. It appears that Mr. Shorter, who was an extensive lumber dealer, began to grow lame, got tired easily, was nervous and debilitated, until at last he became so weak and exhausted that he could not even drag himself around. He lost flesh and strength so rapidly and became so alarmingly prostrated that his friends and relatives despaired of his life.

Now came the marvelous change.

Suddenly Mr. Shorter was transformed from his condition of extreme weakness to one of strength; his nerves grew quickly strong and steady, his muscles became vigorous, his blood was revived and everything was restored to him. He gained weight, and day by day he was able to drag himself around.

Such a remarkable transformation in a man of his age was a nine days' wonder.

Of course the cause was eagerly looked for.

Your correspondent, determined to know the truth for the paper's readers, listened to the following astonishing facts from Mr. Shorter's own lips:

"I feel now like a new man."

"I don't feel like taking an old man of 75 years, physically weak, and broken down, and making him feel like a YOUNG AGAIN! Giving him new life, health and strength, and adding 15 pounds of solid flesh to his weak and debilitated frame!"

"And all in two months, with three bottles of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy!

"What does it cost to take an old man of 75 years, physically weak, and broken down, and making him feel like a YOUNG AGAIN? Giving him new life, health and strength, and adding 15 pounds of solid flesh to his weak and debilitated frame?"

"I advise all to use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy!"

Surely this wonderful remedy is a most marvelous health restorer, and, without doubt, the greatest medical discovery of the age.

"What does it cost to take an old man of 75 years, physically weak, and broken down, and making him feel like a YOUNG AGAIN? Giving him new life, health and strength, and adding 15 pounds of solid flesh to his weak and debilitated frame?"

"I advise all to use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy!"

"I feel now like a new man."

"I don't feel like taking an old man of 75 years, physically weak, and broken down, and making him feel like a YOUNG AGAIN! Giving him new life, health and strength, and adding 15 pounds of solid flesh to his weak and debilitated frame!"

"And all in two months, with three bottles of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy!

GERMAN CATHOLICS.

Sixth Annual Convention in Session at Newark.

EIGHT THOUSAND DELEGATES WILL TAKE PART IN THE MEETING.

The West Especially Well Represented—Important Matters Coming Up for Discussion—The Gathering Distinctly Favorable to Cahaney's Plan of Immigrant Supervision.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 26.—The sixth annual convention of the German Catholics of the United States was begun in this city at noon to-day. The convention will, in point of influence as well as of numbers, far exceed any previous meeting. Not less than 8,000 delegates from the German Catholic parishes of the whole country have already arrived here while every east-bound train on the Erie and Pennsylvania roads brings new additions to the numbers.

With the members of the many German Catholic societies and with the masses of Catholic laymen generally, the total number of participants may safely be placed at from 7,000 to 8,000 persons. Every territory within the jurisdiction of the United States was represented. All the populous cities of the Eastern and the Middle States, and especially of the West and Northwest, have sent their delegates. There are German Catholic societies and laymen from New York, Brooklyn, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Rochester, Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Milwaukee and St. Paul. The importance of the congress from a Catholic point of view may be inferred from its hearty endorsement by Catholic prelates. Archbishop Corrigan will attend and celebrate pontifical high mass in the Church of St. Peter, on Belmont avenue, Archbishop Katzer of Milwaukee has promised to come. Bishops Messmer of Green Bay, Zardetti of St. Cloud, Schwebach of La Crosse, Richter of Grand Rapids and Mgr. Schroeder from the Catholic University at Washington will be here either to-day or to-morrow. The object of the convention is partly told in its programme. There are the usual demonstrative features of every convention—the parade, the torchlight procession, the fireworks, the speeches of welcome, etc. The convention being of a strictly Catholic religious character, the sacred songs and music are to be added.

The deeper significance of the convention lies in the speeches which will be made and in the resolutions which are to be adopted. It is understood that the subjects of the various discourses have been carefully selected, with the intent to be expressed have under consideration received the sanction of the ecclesiastical authorities. A programme has been prepared for the four days of the convention and has been presented in circular form.

A morning paper states that there is, however, another programme not printed, not even generally known to the delegates, which is to be adopted at the meeting. The bishops and bishops have far more weight than the usually profane blessing which relates are generally willing to dispense on the slightest provocation. Archbishop Corrigan and the German part of the Roman hierarchy in this country are on the side of the pro-Catholic party and are well disposed to show this with emphasis and energy. The Archbishop and the German hierarchy are united in opposition against the Americanization ideas of Archbishop Ireland and Cardinal Gibbons. The German Catholic Convention is to be a protest of this opposition in order to influence the coming Archepiscopal Conference in New York.

The German Catholic convention is really an aggressive assertion of the forces of Catholicism. It is a grand rally of the so-called conservative wing within the Roman Church in America.

To fully appreciate the extent to which this congress is in sympathy with Cahaney's plan of the meeting, it must be understood that the March 1st meeting, the chief speakers are concededly the leaders of the German Catholic thought in America, as opposed to the English, French and Irish personal friend of Cahaney, Mgr. Schroeder, was but lately returned from Germany, where he attended during the first part of his month the general meeting of St. Vincent's Society, held at the city of Mayence. At that meeting he was received with enthusiasm, and has drawn his inspiration from Cahaney's ran riot. The now famous Prussian deputy was present in person and addressed his speech in much vigor and defense as his friend, the Monsignor.

The St. Raphael Society is thoroughly ultramontane in its principles and in its organization. Catholicism is known to be the general secretary of the society. The latter has its agents in every European port and in the United States, and considers his number. It is their purpose to do all that possible the stream of emigration and to keep the emigrant loyal to Old World traditions. It is well known that the German is as being dangerous to his faith. It is the purpose of that society to centralize, solidify and isolate the foreign Catholic emigrants and to keep them from any sympathy or association against Protestantism and American ideas. This accounts for the large German and Polish colonies in the West, and for the result of foreign Catholics everywhere to become Americanized.

What has the St. Raphael Society to do with the German Catholics? The answer is, according to one authority, that but for the St. Raphael Society there would be no German Catholic convention. The answer is, according to another, that the circumstances of Mr. Schroeder speaking at the meeting in Mayence made this as plain as water. After referring in his speech to the march of the Archibishop Ireland made on him through the medium of a secular newspaper, Mr. Schroeder said: "I have no objection for you to claim for our side Archbishops Corrigan and Katzer, Bishops Messmer, Zardetti and others. You see we are in good company." It will be well to note that it would be but to say that the title of Cahaney is a title of honor even now, and it will become a more eminent title.

Mr. Cahaney, in his advocacy of the intervention of St. Raphael's Society by showing the alarming losses from the ranks of European Catholics in America.

REPUBLICANS AT THE EX.

This is Harrison Day at the Exposition—Cleveland Day To-Morrow.

To-night will be "Harrison night" at the Exposition. Some confusion and misunderstanding has been caused by a change in the special Harrison and Cleveland nights. At the first arrangement of special nights to-night was set apart for Cleveland Democrats and to-morrow night was given to the Harrison Republicans. The Republicans complained of the arrangement, saying they thought it improper to give the Democrats the first night when the Republican party was the largest. Harrison and President A. number of Democrats had the same idea and no ground for objection in the change, so the other day the nights were reversed giving President Harrison's following night, and Cleveland's followers the second. The programme as first arranged and advertised had made no change in the Exposition building, and will be given to the Harrison night. A large committee of prominent Republicans will be at the door to receive Democrats and Republicans alike, and to present the programme. On Friday before Prof. Gilmore retired, he spoke to Librarian Clayton about the programme, and his only suggestion in that the arrangement of the programme in the second concert he should put "Hush a Bye Baby" in compliment to Baby with a coming from Baby's father. The programme is to be given to the Harrison night, and the programme in the first concert will be given to the Cleveland night.
